Consulting Services

More Than Manufacturing

Making a board game involves hundreds of decisions beyond simply producing the components. With over a decade of manufacturing experience, we help publishers navigate choices around materials, finishes, component construction and production methods. We help you compare options, identify potential problems early and find the right balance between your creative vision, player experience, budget and target audience.

Safety, Compliance & Packaging

Different markets have different requirements for safety testing, labeling, packaging and product information. We help you understand what needs to be considered for the markets where your game will be sold, coordinate safety testing and review packaging and markings before production.

Cost & Specification Optimization

Sometimes a small change can make a big difference. We can suggest alternative materials, constructions, finishes or specifications that reduce cost or improve manufacturability without compromising the original design and the final product.

Production & Logistics Planning

Manufacturing is only one part of getting a game to market. We help you plan the production to meet important dates, provide production timelines and coordinate shipping arrangements, whether you are preparing for a crowdfunding campaign, convention, retail launch or warehouse delivery.

Sustainability Options

From FSC-certified paper and soy based inks to alternative materials, packaging choices and production methods, we can help you understand the sustainability options available for your project and where they can have the most meaningful impact.

Here When You Need Us

Questions inevitably come up during development and production. We are always available throughout the project to discuss options, bounce ideas, answer questions and involve our production team when more technical expertise and engineering is needed.

Crowdfunding Projects

Launch your next game with Boda Games!

Looking to fund your board game on Kickstarter, Gamefound, or BackerKit? With years of experience manufacturing crowdfunded games, we understand what it takes to turn an ambitious campaign into a product that can actually be manufactured and delivered.

Support from Start to Finish

Crowdfunding can be overwhelming, especially the first time. We guide you through the entire manufacturing process, from your initial quotation and prototypes through production, quality control and shipping. You'll always know what comes next and what we need from you.

Finding the Best Stretch Goals & Add-ons

We'll help you choose components and upgrades that backers love while keeping manufacturing and shipping practical. From deluxe finishes and upgraded components to inserts and bonus content, we can help you create stretch goals that add real value without unnecessary cost or complexity.

Designed for Manufacturing

Great ideas still need to be feasible for production. We review your game design with manufacturing in mind, helping you balance quality and cost, identify potential issues early on and prepare components and files that are ready for mass production.

Made for Crowdfunding

Crowdfunding projects often demand more: premium components, deluxe upgrades, stretch goals and high expectations from backers. We understand those expectations and help you turn your campaign promises into a beautiful game that looks and feels the way your backers expect.
